The blue collar boys wowed the public for 20 years with hits such as 'Big Girls Don't Cry', 'Oh What a Night', "Walk like a Man", and many more. But before fame and fortune comes a difficult, and sometimes not entirely legal, journey to stardom. Created by Marshall Brickman and Rick Elice, they wanted to create a traditional documentary style story of the stars and Jersey Boys came from interviews with the surviving members of the band. Since its debut in 2005 Jersey Boys has become a must see, embedding itself in the Broadway Landscape, playing over 3,000 performances and winning 4 Tonys!
